As Is Shown by the Results of the Recent Elections in Massechusetts and New York - He Thinks They Show a Weakening of Confidence in the Party.

WASHINGTON, April 21.-Senator Cummins, insurgent of lows, sounded a warning to the Republicans of the country in the Secute to-day. He was addressing himself to the amendment of the Admin-istration railway bill offered by Senator Elkins, providing that railroads may fix rates by agreement, subject to the approval of the Interstate Commerce Commission. The Senator declared that amendment was so worded as to effect the repeal of the anti-trust law in so far as railroads were concerned, and insisted that it should be changed so as to make it absolutely certain that such rates should not be made effective until approved by the Interstate Commerce

Cummins was interrupted frequently and had several passages with Senators Aldrich, Elkins, Crawford and Sutherland. At one time Mr. Cummins referred to the Elkins amendment as a "dimflam," 'joker," or "the nigger in the woodpile," but later he withdrew the characterizations.

Nelson of Minnesota asked Senator Elkins why the amendment should not be worded so as to make its meaning unmistakable if it was intended that the rates so fixed by agreement would necessarily be approved by the com-

Senator Cummins retorted that he was not so sure about the Republicanism of those who would tamper with the antitrust law, and Senator Fikins chided him for undertaking to read men out of the Republican party. In concluding his speech Senator Claims Cummins warned the Republican Sena-shortly tors that the Republican party was under suspicion. as was shown by the results of the recent elections in Massachusetts and New York. He said:

"We were shocked when we heard the returns of the election in the Massachusetts district. We are overwhelmed and dismayed when we read the despatches announcing the outcome in the New York district. Some people attribute these disturbances, this loss of faith in the Republican party to the tariff, some to the postal savings bank bill, some to this law and some to other things.

"There is only one way in which that can be accomplished if we are to repeat the anti-trust law, and that is that no rate shall be imposed upon the people that is the outcome of an agreement between the railroads until that rate has received the approval of the commission created by the Government for the purpose of standing between the power of the railways on the one hand and the defenceless people on the other. Think well, therefore, before you adopt the amendment proposed by the Senator from West Virginia.

I close by repeating, and I wish I could emphasize it so that it would be heard by every patriot within the borders of our country, that there is no substitute for the anti-trust law save the investigation and the approval of the rate, if it be one agreed upon by the railways, before it shall go into effect."

REPRESENTATIVE FORLER OF NEW JERSEY AIMED IT.

He Offered a Resolution, for Which He Claimed Privilege, Which if Adopted Would Take Away From the Speaker

WASHINGTON, April 21. The row over the rules of the House of Representatives threatened to break out afresh this morning. As a result of the adoption of the insurgent proposition for an enlargemen of the Committee on Rules and the elimnation of the Speaker from that body it had been thought that hostilities along this line would not be resumed at least until after the administration legislative use, but this morning immediately after the House convened Representative Fowler of New Jersey, who was deposed from the chairmanship of the Banking and Currency Committee by Speake Cannon and who has been exceedingly bitter against the Speaker ever since offered a resolution for which he claims privilege for the creation of a majority sentatives, to be called 'the minority committee on committees."

After the call of the House had been completed Speaker Cannon pointed out to Mr. Fowler that the resolution, not having been previously introduced and not having the advantage of the ten day period of maction, was not privileged. Thereupon the New Jersey member withdrew it from before the House and dropped it in the basket to take its regular course. He says he will call it up again in ten days unless action is had upon it earlier than that, which seems improbable, and the row which threatened to come off to-day probably will break out again.

"The House of Representatives should now take the final step to insure its freedom," said Mr. Fowler to-day after all the excitement was over. "The centralization in the Speaker of the right to ap-of the trophy by the American representative at Reims, which entitled this country to the tournament, two of the courts of the United States granted temporary injunctions estrining the Wright patent.

These decisions, the governors say, caused considerable anxiety since the regulations governing the contest provide that if in the opinion of the International Aeronaute Federation a sufficient cause should exist the contest shall be held in France. This anxiety was relieved by forming an agreement with the Wright company, which precludes the contest from being held in any other country than America. The Wright company agrees to license all alleged infringing machines that are exhibited at the meet for a reasonable sum. The governors are also considering the possibility of other meets throughout the country in connection with the international meet, which is a further inducement to foreign avintors. The letter says:

The sanctioning of meets by this club, as the American member of the International Aeronautic Federation, carries with it a responsibility to see that all reasonable precautions are taken for the success of such meets. For instance, that proper facilities will be provided, that the prizes as offered will be forthcomings, that a sufficient number of entries will probably he received to make the meet a success, and finally that the meeting will be actually held as proposed, and in this connection the attitude of the Wright company toward the holding of such meets became of primary

In this connection the members of the club will appreciate that even though the club incurs no legal liability in event of the failure of a meet, nevertheless if such failure was caused by reason of possible obstacles known by the club it would not he free from censure. For instance, suppose a meet were proposed, the cash re-quirements provided, the prizes and contests arranged, the grounds prepared, the meet advertised as being given under the anction of the club, and nevertheless at the last moment, by reason of no arrangement having been made with the Wright company, it should obtain injunctions preventing a large number of the contestants from failure, no one would doubt but that the club would be justly subject to criticism. It therefore became apparent that under existing conditions and so long as the de-cisions of the courts remain favorable to lyn anchorage. As the horse dashed the Wright company no successful meet, down the slope toward the terminal the Wright company no successful meet could be assured without its permission.

Smith Ely has offered $25,000 to the Prison Association of New York as an endowment fund on condition that the association raise $25,000 to match his gift. O. L. Lewis, the corresponding secre-tary of the association, said yesterday that he has received promises of contributions from the following: E. S. Harkness, $2,500; Robert S. Brew-ster, $1,000; Cleveland H. Dodge, $1,000; Arthur Curtiss James, $1,000; Mrs. D. Willis James, $1,000; Mortimer L. Schiff, $1,000; Samuel Thorne, $500; Percy R. Pyne, $500; Francis Lynde Stetson, $500; Frederick Billings, $500; Edward Severin Clark, $250, and J. & W. Seligman & Co.. $500. All of these gifts are conditioned on the raising of $25,000 to match Mr.

Mr. Lewis, in a report made to members of the association, says that $17,922.10 was received in the year ended December 31, 1909, and that the society has a balance for the year of $4,530.90. For relief work $1,456.19 was spent. Salaries used up $7,885.40. It was explained that the cost of the most important work came under the heading "salaries," the money being used to pay the probation officers who lend a hand to persons who get into trouble and who help them after their jail or prison sentences have expired. D. E. Kimball, general agent of the society, and the best known of the probation officers, has been an attendant upon the Court of General Sessions for twenty-five years.

Mr. Lewis informed the members that of the association, says that $17,922.10 was

Utility Car Company

Par value of shares $100 each. Full paid and non-assessable. This Company is incorporated under the laws of Delaware, and has an authorized capital of $1,000,000, all common stock, bonds, preferred stock or other underlying indebtedness. Property—The Utility Car Company of Delaware owns all the capital stock of the AUTO-TRI MANUFACTURING COMPANY and the UTILITY CAR COMPANY of NEW YORK, and all other patents and rights of every description relating to the manufacture, operation and sale of the UTILITY CAR. The Auto-Tri Manufacturing Company is the manufacturing department of the business, operating the factory at Buffalo, N. Y. The Utility Car Company of New York conducts a local parcel delivery business in and around New York City. Demand-There is an immense demand throughout the country among storekeepers of all sorts for a quick, economical and convenient means of delivering packages. The Utility Car provides exactly the means of locomotion desired. Parcel delivery service. utilizing these cars, is being organized in cities throughout the United States.

Profits Orders now on hand and in sight indicate that at least one thousand Utility Cars will be produced and sold within a year. Thereafter, with increased factory facilities, the output should increase at least a thousand cars a year for several years. Careful estimates show that the net earnings of the company, ing the New York delivery service, should be in excess of $1,000,000 in the first three years. From these earnings very large dividends

Secret—The secret of the success of the Utility Car is in its absulutely unique, patented method of transmitting the power. T se transmission is the greatest improvement in the automobile art in recent years. It is the invention of Mr. George R. Bidwell, who invented the diamond frame for bicycles, which revolutionized that industry. This latest invention of his is destined to have a like effect on the automobile business. By its use it is possible to construct a small, light, handy car that can dodge among trucks and pick its way through crowded city streets with perfect safety and ease. Points-The Utility Car is the ONLY car with the new concave disc transmission. The automobile business has made larger for-tunes and done it quicker than any other line of manufacturing. The Utility Car is not a fad, but a necessity. The Utility Car costs only $500, and any merchant can afford one. It costs less than four dollars a day to operate. This includes the wages of the driver and all proper charges for repairs, depreciation and fuel.

Over a HUNDRED MILLION light packages are collected and distributed in Manhattan alone each year. Think of the possibilities in this and other cities. Our Recommendation-The most profitable investments are stocks of good enterprises that were bought BEFORE the venture had achieved its full success. If you WAIT you must pay the other man for his courage and confidence. We are satisfied that the UTILITY CAR COMPANY is managed by trustworthy, capable men; has a good start and enough money to keep up with its present requirements, and that additional capital secured by the sale of stock will largely increase the business and profits.

recommend the stock as a first-class industrial investment.
